Hi Cora,

I wanted to reach out to you because I believe you can help me help students out who have been unable to continue their current work due to the situation we're all facing.

Numerade is always looking to hire bright students who generally excel in STEM subjects. We compensate students to help us create short how-to videos in common STEM subjects. These videos get viewed by thousands of other students looking for support in their studies. Here's an example. We work with hundreds of undergraduate students, graduate students, and professional teachers across the globe.

For more information and where to sign up, students can visit here:

Thank you and please let me know if you have any questions.
